3358:11-3-62 Residency determination.

(A) Purpose. The residency status of each student determines tuition surcharges to the student and the college’s subsidy payments.

(B) Guidelines.

1. The residency status of each student is determined during the admissions process based upon the information available to make that particular decision.

2. This decision is revocable, but the student must appeal through the residency review process.

   (a) The completed petition is reviewed by the residency review committee for final determination by the residency officer.

   (b) This process must be completed prior to the beginning of classes for the semester being petitioned.
